

Fishguard and Goodwick have done it before and we can do it again - Now we need to protect ourselves from expensive oil and climate change.

Standing together we can make the difference.

Transition initiatives help make communities become less dependent on resources from elsewhere and create a more certain future for our children

Forum meetings are open for everyone in our area to discuss how we can do this.

Project groups turn ideas into action.

- Finding land for allotments so that more people can grow their own food
- Producing a plastic free bag for Fishguard and Goodwick
- Organising sustainable living courses with Adult Education
- Using Renewable Energies
- Providing information about composting and recycling
- Helping people reduce their energy use
- Working with Fishguard library to have a book section on climate change and sustainability
- Encouraging us all to buy local

Transition is about building a strong local community whilst moving towards a low carbon economy.
